

Dear Valued Patients,

March 17, 2020

Our priority is the health, safety and well-being of our patients, team, friends and family. We will continue to monitor the COVID-19 outbreak, and make adjustments to our practice as new information and guidance emerge. Our thoughts are with all those people currently impacted by the virus, and all of the health care professionals working to care for them.

Following the recommendations of the New Jersey Dental Association (NJDA), We will only provide essential and urgent dental care to our patients for the next two weeks during our normal business hours. We shall resume normal operation on April 6, 2020 or until local, state and/or federal recommendations suggest otherwise.

As a primary health care office, we practice universal sterilization precautions. We clean, sterilize and disinfect all exposed surfaces, instruments and technology before and after every appointment, utilizing the most modern and advanced techniques available.

Please feel free to reach out to the office anytime should you have questions or concerns. While these days of anxiety and uncertainty will be challenging, we will get through them together with kindness, cooperation and compassion.

Sincerely,

Dr. Kassem
